Simplify and accelerate renewable energy procurement

There is a growing trend in Canada for corporations and institutions to purchase renewable energy directly from developers in a practice called off-site non-utility procurement. This allows buyers to meet carbon compliance requirements or sustainability targets, and has the potential to hedge electricity costs and contribute to local economic development.

Offsite non-utility procurement refers to the acquisition of off-site renewable energy, along with associated environmental attributes, by corporate entities and other non-utility buyers such as universities or government agencies. This procurement is commonly achieved by way of virtual power purchase agreements (vPPAs).

Alberta is the perfect place in Canada for such non-utility renewable energy procurement. The province is rich in natural resources, including wind and solar, with an experienced energy sector. Alberta also has a deregulated electricity market that gives buyers the flexibility to enter into contracts directly with energy developers.

What is the Business Renewables Centre Canada?

Generating awareness in the industry

We are a community where buyers can learn how to source renewable energy directly from renewable energy project developers.

Building a strong community

We make it easier to enter the renewable energy market by sharing the hard-earned lessons of early adopters.

Creating effective tools and services

We provide tools to help first-time buyers make informed decisions, and complete deals more quickly, easily and cost effectively.

BRC-Canada is a community where businesses can learn how to source renewable energy directly from developers. BRC Canada is a non-profit initiative seeking to catalyze the market for non-utility procurement in Canada to grow renewable energy development in the country.

The community has over 50 participants – and growing. Our spring and fall webinar series regularly attract several hundred attendees from a diverse range of companies, non-profits and government or municipal organizations.

BRC-Canada makes it easier for corporations to enter the renewable energy market by raising awareness and understanding about the procurement process and sharing lessons from active players. We publish primers and guides, host networking and training opportunities and provide access to ongoing market intelligence.

These tools, resources and guidance help first-time buyers up the learning curve so that they successfully complete their deals faster, easier and more cost effectively.

Why should I be interested?

Community participants have access to an expanding suite of tools and resources, BRCC-exclusive events, training and networking opportunities. Participants are categorized as either BUYERS, INTERMEDIARIES or DEVELOPERS at GOLD, SILVER or NON-PROFIT levels.

The non-profit participation category was established in 2022 to enhance access, equity and inclusion. If you are unsure whether your organization qualifies for this category, please email info@businessrenewables.ca.*
